LOTTERY BILL WAR

BOSTON—Charging that approximately $70,000 is spent every day by residents of Massachusetts in the "nigger pool" lottery, Rep. Sullivan, at the annual meeting of the National Civic Federation at the Vendome, declared the passage of the State lottery bill now before the House would take that revenue from the gangsters and give it to the State. Sullivan said many of Boston's streets, several bridges around Boston, two buildings at Harvard and buildings at Dartmouth and Brown were built by lotteries, and that all but two or three countries in the world have legalized the system.

CWA TO FURNISH MAIDS

NEW YORK—Families of jobless men who are away from home all day hunting work and whose wives are ill are going to have maids. The civil works office here announced yesterday it will place 200 Negro housemaids in these homes at $12 a week. ## Unemployed To Get Work On Highway

On the matter of the Cambridge-Concord highway, a Public Works Administration project, a decision as to the number of men from the communities, through which the new highway will pass, who will be put to work on the project has been reached. To every thirteen persons put to work on the new highway, eight will be from Arlington, three from Belmont and two from Cambridge.

These figures are governed by the mileage of construction in the respective communities. The decision will be welcome news to local unemployed who have been striving to get a job on the new road for some time.

Another change in policy has been made in the administration of the CWA and PWA in Arlington. Records and registrations from the Towns of Belmont, Lexington and Winchester have been removed to the old town hall in Arlington where they will be kept in order by William Spencer, local representative of the Federal Re-employment Service. Augustus J. Power, field supervisor of the Federal Re-employment Service will have complete charge of the administration over four towns.

Neil Peters will continue in his capacity of assistant to Selectman Arthur P. Wyman, Arlington CWA administrator.

All unemployed who wish to get a job either on a CWA or PWA project should register on the second floor of the old town hall as in the past.

Arleast Dance Is A Success

The Arleast Club's first dance proved to be a highly successful affair.

Don Gahan's orchestra lived up to its pre-dance commendation and was well received by a large crowd of young people from Arlington and surrounding towns.

Many were so well pleased by the event that they recommended the Arleast Club keep up its good work and run another dance in the near future.

The dance committee, consisting of Geo. W. Pacheco chairman, Daniel J. Buckley, L. Jackson Aubrey, George W. Linnane, Nicholas Torriero and Joseph L. Mitchell deserve high praise for its work towards attaining such a successful affair.

May Summon Other People In Riot Case

Arraigned in the East Cambridge district court yesterday on a charge of disturbing a public assembly, Stephen Terjelian, of 94 Webster st., prominent local barber who was arrested during the riot at the Armenian mass meeting in Robbins town hall Sunday afternoon had his case continued until February 9.

Will Summon Others

According to the police several others will be summoned on a charge of assault and battery when the case is continued. The riot brought to a stirring climax the protest meeting against the Dashnag party eight of whose members are charged with the assassination of Archbishop Tourain, Armenian prelate, in New York city a short time ago.

Local members of the Dashnag party were considerably disturbed over the whole affair and stated that the public should wait until all angles of the assassination are finally settled before passing judgment. They pointed out that Terjelian is a law-abiding citizen and did not attend the meeting with the purpose of creating a disturbance.

Aroused by something which George H. Lowe, Arlington selectman, said, Terjelian presented a note to the chairman, Dr. Aznia Israellian, asking for permission to speak with the selectmen present. His request was denied by the chair, and he was asked to take his seat. This happened again, and as Terjelian refused to be quieted the people around started to seize him. He dashed up the right aisle and a disturbance resulted. One man was hurt, and a woman fainted. Terjelian and another man were seized by the police and taken to the station. The other man was freed.

Doctor Presides

This protest meeting was a direct result of the murder of Archbishop Tourain of the Armenian Apostolic church of New York.

Before the disturbance occurred Dr. Aznia Israellian, woman doctor of Arlington, gave a short talk in which she told the audience that in all her twenty-two years in America she had looked up to the country as a great nation insuring justice and freedom. After this the audience saluted the American flag.

Selectmen Speak

Selectmen George Lowe and Leonard Collins and John L. Murphy, town counsel addressed the gathering, each assuming them that anything which should be decided at this meeting to oust the Dashnag Party would meet with their approval and they would help as much as possible.

When the meeting was resumed after the disturbance, two speakers were introduced. They were Daniel Simonian of Worcester and Yrvant Messinian, editor of the Boston Daily Armenian newspaper.

Both spoke in their own language, and each suggested the plan that the different Armenian clubs were to hunt for those of the Dashnag Party responsible in any way for the murder of Archbishop Tourain, and others connected with that party. Eight members of this party are now under arrest in New York charged with attacking the Archbishop while conducting a mass in a New York

"Spread Sunshine and Safety"

Daddy Sunshine Club Rules

1. Be kind and helpful to others.
2. Look both ways when crossing streets.
3. Always be kind to dumb animals.
4. Write a letter to Daddy Sunshine, or have Mother or Dad write it for you, every now and then.
5. Try to bring a "Ray of Sunshine" into the lives of your parents and others every day of the week and every week of the year.

These rules are not very difficult for good girls and boys to keep. Most of them are kept by them anyway.

Mail your letters and stories to Daddy Sunshine, in care of this paper. He will answer them in the Daddy Sunshine column.

Write on but one side of the paper, and place your age and address on the letter after your name. Give the day, month and year of your birth.

To join the club all you have to do is promise to keep the rules—and keep them.

WANTS BOOKS & PUZZLES

My dear Daddy Sunshine:

I saw in the Mercury where we are all going to have a reunion Washington's birthday. That's fine. I hope I am better by then. If I am can I be one of the entertainers, 'cause when we used to broadcast on WLOE, I used to be a baby entertainer. Now I am getting to be a big girl. I will be twelve on May 25th, and am in the sixth grade in the Swan school. Our report cards we got last week. I was on the honor roll.

I am in bed sick and so is my sister. I have been in bed over a week.

I was going to send to the paper, our President's Life, but I got sick and couldn't. It would have been nice for his birthday.

Daddy, I am sure every one of us would do without a penny for candy, and if we all gave just one penny, you could send it to Georgia to the sick children, for after all that is one of the Meanings of our Sunshine club. Even as little as it were it would buy some ice cream for one little boy and one little girl.

"Will you ask in the Mercury if any one has jig saw puzzles they don't want, or a couple of books. It's lonesome to be in bed. I would like to read "Little Women", in fact all the series, and the "Little Peppers". Some one might have one they don't want.

Good night Daddy, I am awful sick tonight.

Your little Baby Peggy Bird of long ago, getting to be a big girl.

Daddy Sunshine was most pleased to hear from you again Peggy and hopes you will soon be better, and that you will be able to attend the Washington Birthday party at the Women's clubhouse on Feb. 22nd. He was sorry to learn you were ill and will endeavor to get some puzzles and books for you.

A POEM WORTH WHILE

Dear Daddy Sunshine:

I am writing to let you know I have not forgotten you. I am going to write a poem about spreading sunshine. It is called "The Brightness of Life."

A thought that is winged from friend to friend

Doesn't seem such a wonderful thing

Yet it carries the prayer for a joy without end

And it throbs with a big friendly ring.

A mere word of cheer in the shadow of night,

When discouragement darkens the way,

Will illumine our hearts with the glorious light

Of a hopeful sun-brightened day.

When failure confronts us and darkens our goals,

How we long for the clasp of a hand!

It is then that we cry from the depths of our souls

For a friend who can just understand.

A bright, cheery smile often gives us the strength

That we lack in the vortex of strife,

For it lightens our load as we travel the length

Of the care-laden path we call life.

So we find after all that the things we thought small

Small Gardens Yield Excellent Vegetables

Many city dwellers are deprived of the fresh vegetables they would like to have because they think they haven't enough space to grow them. If you are one of those who live in a small home or apartment, and really want a garden of your own, perhaps there is no reason why you can't have one.

No piece of ground, however small or poor, is wholly unfit to accommodate some kind of a garden. Even a space five by five feet square can produce all the radishes and lettuce a family of five can eat. To grow them is no work at all, and what a lot of fun, to say nothing of the conversation it inspires with friends, and the contribution it makes to the menu.

Select a location with as much sunlight as possible. Sun from nine o'clock in the morning until three o'clock in the afternoon is needed for most vegetables. Many city gardens in congested areas, however, do not get this amount of light and still do very well.

Urban gardeners are very often faced with poor soil conditions. A perfect soil is seldom found, however, and all soils must be constantly built and rebuilt if they are to be used every year. So your problem with a poor soil isn't insurmountable after all, and can be easily solved by the use of commercial fertilizers, peat moss, or its home equivalent, compost, and a little limestone, perhaps, to loosen up a sticky soil.

Good drainage is a necessity of which the gardener should assure himself before he attempts to plant his ground. No garden vegetables will grow in conditions which permit of a wet, soggy soil where the puddles after rains do not drain off quickly. Such a condition bars a piece of ground from use as a garden until it has been corrected.

Although the small garden is seldom as satisfactory as a more complete one, it has its advantages where lack of space is the leading consideration. Many small gardeners specialize in one or two vegetables only, such as tomatoes or lettuce and radishes, and with a minimum of effort get a grateful yield of the salad vegetables they like the most.

Loom colossal above all the host;

That the best of God's gifts are the friends we can call

To our side when we need them most.

I hope you like my poem, I also hope I win a pass-for it.

A faithful though old member.

Ruthie Egan,

The poem was beautiful Ruthie, and carried a wonderful message for all Sunshiners. We should be ever ready to bring cheer to others, particularly those who are burdened with some sorrow or other. Daddy Sunshine is glad to award you with a ticket for your letter.

BELIEVES MAYNARD AND MARY WARD SHOULD GIVE UP PARTY JOBS

Massachusetts Women's Political Club Praises Stand of President Roosevelt—Demands That National Committeemen Holding High Salaried Governmental Position Give Up One Job

In a letter from the Massachusetts Women's Political Club, national committeemen holding high salaried positions in government are urged to follow President Roosevelt's advice and give up either one of their jobs. The letter follows:

January 31, 1934.

Dear Editor:

All honest citizens, whatever their political belief, must endorse the ruling from Washington, presumably originating in the just mind of our great President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, that members of the Democratic National Committee who hold high salaried positions as well as their official party connections, should give up one of them.

There is no personal implication in the Washington dispatch, which is general and which embraces all the states, and none should be placed there. President Roosevelt is taking an action which is a most laudable part of his New Deal. The decision is but another step forward in the President's progressive and enlightened administration.

Government is only a machine for getting things done for the people. The administration of government and of governmental policies can not afford to become the instrument of any particular political party to further its advancement. Nor must it give even the slightest suspicion of so doing.

Keep Politics Out

President Roosevelt has won merited applause by the order he recently gave that persistent effort must be made to keep politics and partisanship out of the Civil Works Program.

The officers and members of this organization have worked and are still working to wrest the CWA from political highwaymen who have made a racket of this magnificent project costing millions of dollars and involving the lives and happiness of so many citizens.

To preserve American institutions, government must be purged of the slightest hint that it is in the hands of the spoils-men. Public resentment is rising in rising in flood tide against politicians who hold that jobs are political plunder. The great humanitarian efforts of the President must not be endangered by loss of confidence on that part of the public.

The times are critical. Desperate people who are suffering must be assured that their hardships are understood, and are being treated with justice.

And a crucial period lies ahead! Time, the final test, will bring success or failure. The subordinates of our great President must give all their endeavors to the tasks to which he has assigned them, and for which they get high remuneration a fortune to workers on the CWA and to those who, vainly seeking work, receive inadequate welfare dole. In the months to come, administrators of the President's policies will be called upon to prove their ability and to show their mettle. One job is enough.

Joseph A. Maynard, chairman of the Democratic State committee and also Collector of the Port, and Miss Mary H. Ward, Democratic National Committee Woman and also Commissioner of Immigration, as leaders of Democracy in this State, should be first to endorse the President's policy. They should encourage members of the State Democratic Committee to cooperate with the President.

To prove their gratitude to President Roosevelt for bestowing upon them lucrative positions, both should immediately resign from their active official participation in Democratic politics and throw all their energies into assuming their governmental responsibilities.

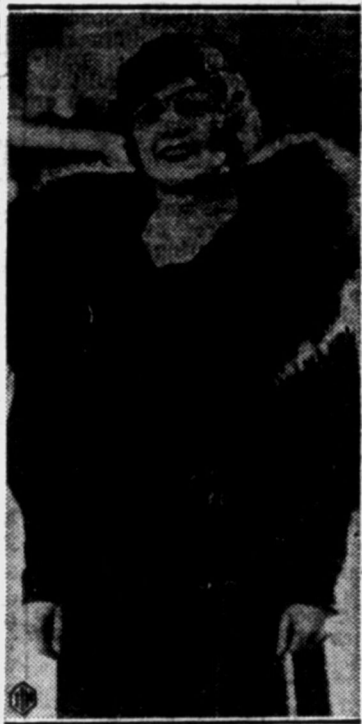

We must march along with the New Deal. We must keep in line with the President's policy. In this crisis there can be no criticism of the pilot of the Ship of State, especially in the ranks of his own party.

Sincerely yours for good government,

Florence Birmingham,
President

One Line After Another

By Governor Cradock

Thomas A. Edison, the great inventor, once offered a cash prize to shop workers unable to find in stock in the laboratory storeroom at East Orange, N. J., any article needed to carry on an experiment. One of the scientist's assistants was hard put for a clothespin—and he won the prize!

If anybody in Medford has an old-fashioned buggy of the vintage of the early 19th century, the Smithsonian Institution at Washington wants it, and badly; for it hasn't been able to find one yet anywhere in America—not but what there are plenty of buggies still rattling along over country roads and town pavements, but this especial kind of a buggy has got to be of an earlier day in order to make the Smithsonian's exhibit of horse-drawn rolling stock complete.

Since the common noun, "buggy," is a poser for the youth of today to whom gasoline is the only go-getter and in whose minds "ho-se" conjures up a picture of a wooden object with four stiff legs used to shut off a street, it will be informative to offer, modestly of course, the dictionary definition of the word. The singular is "buggy," plural, "buggies"—and this doesn't mean an antiquated bedtick or a collection of them. Rather the word means, "a light vehicle for one or two horses, having four wheels, and with or without a hood; if without a hood, a 'top buggy.'"

That's what the Smithsonian Institution sorely needs; that's what the oldsters used to go a-courtin' in; and if our father hadn't been pitched out of a buggy by a runaway horse, suffered obroken leg, and requested the writer to send a correct report of the accident to the Medford Mercury of that day, we wouldn't have been in the newspaper profession for 10, these many years. Printer's ink affected us more than the runaway.

Be that as it may, possibly after all there's a buggy in some old barn hereabouts which would appear well and answer the purposes of correct history, with a Medford, Massachusetts, label, and all that sort of thing, in Smithsonian's vaulted archives at the National Capitol.

Some time in 1932 we were regaled at some meeting or other, with a pamphlet telling all about buggies, parts of buggies, and repair stock for the queer animal. The pamphlet contains 52 pages, illustrated, fulsome in praise of the product of the Cook Carriage Company of Cincinnati, Ohio, and it was issued in 1888, when the vehicle was "guaranteed, with fair and reasonable usage, for one year from date of purchase from us."

The particular kind of buggy the Smithsonian Institution wants for its incomplete exhibit, is shown in several pages of this booklet. The Smithsonian explains it must have "a buggy equipped with curious crosswise springs, a small rectangular body, and four wheels." The Cook Carriage Company built just this sort of a dodad—and it was comfortable. At first the large, lightly built steel shod, wheels with their 16 ash spokes each carried a body with bottom lower at the front than the remainder of the carriage floor. This was for a foot-ease. Later the entire floor was leveled and the seat raised. The springs mentioned in the Smithsonian's requirement were elliptical and supported the buggy body at front and back. The springs rested on two sets of heavier springs, one attached with bolts to the crossbar below the floor, and its mate to the light steel axle.

In those days the less expensive buggy was given first place in the price list—quite doubtless to attract buyers. There was the "Standard B" grade, and the "Special A" grade; the first sold for $110 without a top; and it had no inferior. The typical buggy without top sold for $92 in the "B" grade, and for $110 in the "Special A" grade. The top consisted of a fan-ribbed contrivance covered usually with varnished rubber cloth. The frame had pivoted elbows that shut back and down just like the tops of the earlier open automobiles. (See your family photograph album of "our first car.")

Of course there were "extras" to make the job complete—a rubber "storm apron" for $2.00; and one made of "drill" for $1.50; a leather "boot" for $4.00. If one wanted to be a bit more stylish he could order a leather roof and back curtain with oval window for $10.00 for his "top buggy," while for ten dollars more leather side curtains were available.

The Cook Carriage Company of Cincinnati was not in business for its health, and refused to consent, "after selling their vehicles at moderate prices and upon low margins, to their profits being nibbled away by country blacksmiths' bills and trivial claims, and under no circumstances will they make allowances other than provided in the guarantee."

The "tread" of the buggy—a term born of the width between tires of the motor car—allowed one two choices, and it was called back in 1888, the "track." You could buy a buggy with either a 4'8" track, or it must be 5'1" . . . and to avoid delay, "strangers must send references."

CUBA RECOGNIZED

Official relations with Cuba, after having been in suspension for 10 months, have been resumed by our government in recognizing the new government under Mendieta. For five months past Cuba has had no less than five revolutions and six presidents. The recognition now accorded the new Cuban government, it is sincerely hoped, will prevent, for a time anyway, any further revolts and will assist Cuba in getting back to a reasonable prosperity.

The people of the United States understand that Mendieta seems to be the choice of a large majority of the people for the high office he now fills, and they hope for him and his country a continued stability.

One of the perplexing problems that will have to be settled between the authorities at Washington and Havana will be the necessity and propriety of abrogating from the treaty which established the republic of Cuba, the often discussed Platt amendment.

That amendment to the treaty provided that in order to assure a permanent government in Cuba and to protect the rights of the people and of Americans resident in the island, the United States could, if occasion required, intervene in the control and management of the Cuban government. We did intervene, at one time when the government seemed to have gotten out of hand. That intervention was a good thing for Cuba, at the time, as it assisted in restoring peace among the people and in settling the finances of the country.

But, nevertheless, the Platt amendment has been a source of much dispute and turmoil among the Cuban people and has imperiled American interests on the island. One of the incessant demands by the revolutionists of the past year, was that the Platt amendment be abrogated and that all possibility of intervention on the part of the United States be ended.

It is more than probable that in order to maintain peace the amendment will have to be taken out of the treaty and an understanding on some other basis reached.

The tariff on sugar is also an impediment to the permanent peace and prosperity of the Cuban people. In view of the fact that America has a sugar problem of its own in the beet sugar industry, comparatively small although it may be, and the further fact that a certain portion of the sugar production of the Philippines is admitted to this country free of duty, the sugar problem promises to be the most difficult question with which our authorities will have to deal.

In any event, we congratulate the new president of Cuba that he has been recognized by the government of the United States, the Cuban people that they will now be given an opportunity to compose their internal differences and to begin the long climb toward prosperity.

Did You Ever Stop To Think

by Edson R. White

Gault Macgowan, Managing Editor of the Trinidad Guardian, Port of Spain, B. W. I., Says:

"Inefficiency is a big part of my production costs." This is the constant wail of employers who are frank enough to admit it. Others try to hide it because they think that to admit inefficiency in a concern is to admit inefficiency in the administration.

"Discharging an employee is a poor remedy for inefficiency. Months, maybe years of care and training may be thrown away because of a moment's neglect of duty. On the other hand, neglect to penalize inefficiency leads to an increase in production costs, which have to be distributed over the whole body of workers.

"Salary increases for good work are no permanent solution either. The man who gets them may bank on his record and blame his subordinates—and, because of his position, hold up the advancement of someone keener and more consistently efficient.

"How often the temptation comes a reward a man for good work, and how often is that temptation put behind because it may lead to a permanent, unjustified increase of the payroll. How often does a man fail to get on and wonder why it is, yet lacking the courage to ask why.

"The employed man knows whether his work has been up to scratch or not. He knows if he has done specially good work. The employer knows too. He wants his man to give of his best and to earn every cent he pays him. He cannot afford to pay for what he does not get. He is not looking to save money by lowering efficiency, but to cut production costs by having 100 percent efficiency.

"Everyone who by attention to duty helps keep the wheels turning smoothly deserves to win."

ARLINGTON CRITIC PRAISES EXHIBITION OF ARTIST

Frank C. Kirk's exhibition of liminality in most of these landscapes.

The portraits and figures dominate everything. There is an amazing power in these portraits and figures. He uses a sky background behind most of these and the sky seems always to be related to the mood and character of the figure or portrait. Some of these figures would look well in bronzes.

The physical power and character of those Slav workmen who dig in the mines and tunnels or work on the skyscraper have a strong appeal for Frank C. Kirk. Take that life-size figure entitled "His Majesty the Toiler." What power in that figure carrying a shovel on his shoulder! There is character in the face.

The largest picture in the exhibition is entitled "Market Day." One girl in picturesque costume is standing up, another is seated and in front of them and all about them are jars and large bottles, squash and corn and melons and a dead bird. It is a riot of color.

There are several portraits of Spanish peasant types here that are full of character and that Spanish dignity which they always preserve. The spirit of Spain is in these pictures. He has picked up a number of picturesque characters out of the bread lines in New York city the past few years—men beaten and baffled by the depression—and some of them pathetic.

In strong contrast to these is the portrait of a smiling old Negro to whom every day is a new day and a new adventure in humor, if nothing more.

That large picture of the two miners returning from work is powerfully impressive.

In contrast to these are those vivid flower paintings, beautiful in color and arrangement and painted to the limit.

There are some views of New York city out of the artist's studio window, which are wrought with infinite pains in drawing—realistic pictures full of color and light—and character. That one showing the Old Bowery Church is a gem.

The picture of the shacks built by homeless men in one of the rocky parks, entitled "Peace on Earth", is just as well done. It makes one of those amazing contrasts of which New York is full—contrasts in architecture as well as in social and economic life. This artist is sensitive to all these things.

There are two excellent half-nudes in the exhibition and the landscapes are impressive—done in a big, free way. It is a worthwhile exhibition and is open free to the public.

Held in Death of Pastor Mate

Illicit love and insurance money, say police, were motives behind slaying of the Rev. Gaylord V. Saunders, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Wabash, Ind. The victim's widow and Theodore Mathers, 19-year-old embalming student (both above), are held in Indianapolis, charged with the murder. Police said Mrs. Saunders confessed paying Mathers $10 to commit the crime.

When a Tailor Made the Man

By IRVIN S. COBB

THERE used to be a Southern born Colonel of one of the negro regiments of the United States Army whose first name was James. He was a small, dapper man, very dignified and very much aware of the importance of the position he filled. He was a great believer in athletics and he organized three baseball teams among members of his battalions and started a series of games for the regimental champions.

One afternoon two of the clubs were playing an important game of the series. The commander, watching from the sideline, thought the rivals were not showing sufficient spirit, considering that the score was close and the championship at stake. He decided to show both outfits that ginger was requisite. He yanked off his service coat, grabbed a bat and declared himself into the game.

"Now, then," he stated, as he advanced to the plate, "for just so long as I've got no shoulder straps on I want you men to treat me as if I were one of you. I'm not your Colonel—I'm a player. Let's go!"

The pitcher sped the ball across the plate and the Colonel cracked out a three bagger. He tried to stretch it into a homer. As he turned third base on the dead run the coacher for his side opened up.

"Run, you pore lil sawdoff, pop-eyed, bow-legged, homely white runt! Run!" he shouted. "Now slide old Jimboy, dadgum you — SLIDE!"

The Colonel slid and got there. Then he went over and put his coat on.

ADMIRAL BYRD ESTABLISHES NEW COAST LINE IN ANTARCTIC: Based on his observations during two recent flights in the Antarctic, Admiral Richard E. Byrd reports that about 200,000 square miles of previously unknown area now can be eliminated from Antarctic maps and can be designated simply "Pacific Ocean". Captain Ashley C. McKinley, New York, Byrd's aerial photographer on the first expedition, is shown pointing to area (in black) formerly believed to be land and now definitely established as water. The shaded area, to the right, is believed by Admiral Byrd also to be all ocean. Admittedly, "homesick" for the South Pole regions, Captain McKinley regularly talks to his old friends with the Byrd expedition during the broadcasts to and from the exploring party which are heard every Saturday night at 10 o'clock, e.s.t., over the Columbia network.

Great Exhibition
By Modern Master

Frank C. Kirk of New York, a great painter of which this country may feel justly proud, has a "one man show" in the spacious picture gallery of the Boston Art Club, corner of Dartmouth and Newbury sts.

There are about seventy-five large canvases, painted in oil, including many portraits, figures in action, nudes, still-life, flowers, landscapes and marines.

The artistry, technique and power to see things as they are, and the ability to use his knowledge as only a great artist can, to eliminate all the nonessentials and grasp the vital elements forming them into living things, which vibrate with color, light and shade, and perfect composition, is indeed a great triumph; as such, Frank C. Kirk is a master.

Mr. Kirk was born in Russia, reared and educated in America, has traveled much in this country and abroad, especially in Spain.

Many of his portraits and figure pieces can well be said to rival the works of Whistler and Sargent; and in days to come, will be found in the great picture galleries and museums of the world, and in private galleries, where art collectors know the difference between art that is art, which will live for centuries, and a flash in the pan that is only a ridiculous misconception of it.

The Cubists came upon the art world about twenty-five years ago and have produced nothing that can be called art, and at the same time, have done more to confuse the layman and make him disgusted, than anything else that could be devised, so much so, that he is afraid to buy on account of being ridiculed by persons who really know.

Mr. Kirk's pictures are all rare works of art, easily understood; and show with unmistakable clearness that his art is based on the true fundamentals the higher arts; directness, simplicity, truthfulness and sincerity. A pleasing instance of this may be seen in his "Market Day".

The exhibition is free to the public, and is open every day from eleven to five, and on Sundays from two to five, closing Feb. 24. It is a rare treat and should be seen by all who are interested in education and the cultural side of life.

Increasing Prosperity

HOW all nations hail any sign that bespeaks a return of prosperity today! Each indication is added to that already marked, and the press, with its associate, the radio, spreads abroad the encouraging news. This publicity seems, however, to point toward material acquisition and the adjustment thereof. It is reported that a great electrician was asked by a well-known economic statistician what line of research would see the greatest development in the next fifty years, and the reply was that he believed the greatest discoveries would be along spiritual lines.

The world in more recent times has had experiences which show that material success is fleeting and fickle. Many have from the trials imbibed lessons which have turned their thoughts Spiritward. Assurance of supply must be founded on something more substantial than is outwardly indicated in material conditions.

The truth of man's being is his divine sonship. The proof of "what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us" is shown in Jesus' supreme sacrifice, which was climactic in the process of his Messiahship. Today, how much are men relying upon the promises of "one God and Father of all"? Whether or not the divine leading is acknowledged, none can truly prosper apart from the guidance of Mind, God, infinite good. It is the knowledge of the truth of being, unfolding new and higher views of God and man—Principle and idea—which results in that ever sought satisfaction called happiness. Christian Science has shown thousands upon thousands that this spiritual awakening begets the understanding and establishment of veritable prosperity in their lives.

A question frequently asked is, How may I seek and know God's guidance? No one searches in material thinking for a comprehension of the spiritual facts of being which will guide one into the realm of abiding peace. It is the understanding of God and of man's relationship to Him—the oneness of Principle and idea—that leads into the path wherein the footsteps of faith and confidence lead onward to security. "Mortals must look beyond fading, finite forms, if they would gain the true sense of things. Where shall the gaze rest but in the unsearchable realm of Mind?" writes Mary Baker Eddy on page 264 of "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures."

The Scriptures become an ever unfolding field for research when opened by this Christianly scientific key. Considering the subject herein viewed, what could be plainer to one who seeks prosperity than the promise, "As the rain cometh down, and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth, and maketh it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, and bread to the eater: so shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth: it shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it." Here, then, is genuine prosperity, and happy is he who knows that the visible expression is based on the Word of God in his heart. Such a one shall dwell in that safeguarded habitation, the consciousness of good. The joy of construction on such a basis is the harbinger of its achievement. Everyone has access to the storehouse of essential truth for his building; it is made plain in the study and application of the Science of Christianity.

To resist the materialistic arguments that knock at our mental doors for admission is a necessary step. The next great step is the acknowledgment and realization of the ever-presence of God, good. This step taken, where has the error of material sense—calling itself discord, lack, sickness, or warfare—room to spread itself? Christian Science teaches that through affirmation and realization of the truths of being results will be evident such as will show the power of Truth to calm the waters stirred by the stormy winds of fearsome material views of creation. Small wonder that the betterment of our thought-processes should be found to be the long-sought way of individual contribution to the forward movement of state and nation! Each one of us has his place to fill and part to perform in maintaining the welfare of the whole world—the goal toward which the spirit of internationalism points with an increasingly prosperous outlook.—The Christian Science Monitor.

High School Class Enjoys Dance Party

The High School group attending Grace D. Curry's Saturday assemblies held their Valentine party on Saturday evening. It was a "summer party" in character and the young ladies in their organdies and the young men in their "slacks" and flannels made a colorful picture with the effective decorations of the hall. The many red hearts and cupid's together with the varied colored balloons made a gay setting.

Mrs. George B. Ottley and Mrs. H. N. Rasely were in attractive evening gowns and received the young people, who were presented by the ushers, Roger Bachofner, Emens Guernsey, Philip Sullivan and John Buckley. Two elimination dances were held during the evening and the four lucky winners were given prizes. There were several favor dances and one Valentine's dance. When the balloons were lowered and the last dance announced at eleven the young people agreed it had been a very short evening.

The other pupils of Grace D. Curry are looking forward to their Valentine parties on Saturday. The younger class will hold theirs at Odd Fellows Hall in the afternoon and the Junior High group meet in the same hall in the evening from 7.00 to 9.30.

Arleast Club Bows To A A A

The basketball game at the Junior High with the score Arlington A. A. 46, Arleast club 32, found the A. A. way off form with practically team play forgotten. The East Club took a good advantage of this fact by their ability to shoot and score on long shots. The game was close the entire way and at no time did either team gain any decided advantage. The score at the half time was 17 to 15 in favor of the A. A. Donahue passed to Goodwin on several occasions only to find them go astray. Goodwin was playing with an injured ankle and could not be expected to keep up the fast pace set by his teammates. Galucci kept the leaders in the race the entire first period aided ably by those Twin-Six high powered guards, Lowder and Friery. The second half was a different story which climaxed the game with a fiery last quarter. The Big Red evidently sensing a defeat put on the pressure and the result was that Donahue and Friery began their whirlwind passing with Eddie Galucci popping them in to wind up the game. The final three minutes for the A. A. netted them 14 points which won the game. The Big Red must concentrate on team work a little more carefully in future games. They looked off a bit and here's hoping it was just one of those off nights and on Thursday night they will encounter the reinforced Arlington Pals at the Junior High.

With a star-studded cast, headed by such stellar performers as Janet Gaynor, Lionel Barrymore, Henrietta Crosman and Robert Young, Fox Film will present its latest release, "Carolina," at the Metropolitan Theatre for one week beginning Friday, February 9th.

Janet Gaynor and Robert Young have the romantic leads. Besides Lionel Barrymore and Henrietta Crosman the cast boasts such names as Richard Cromwell, Mona Barrie, Stepin Trued up and on Wednesday, at Cosbey, Jackie Cosbey, Almeda Fowler and Alden Chase. Henry King, of "State Fair" fame, directed from the screen play by Reginald Berkeley, who will be remembered for his fine writing in "Cavalcade."

In keeping with the high calibre of screen entertainment the management of the theatre will present another of the special stage attractions announced earlier in the season. A special musical revue featuring the double headline combination of Roy Atwell, radio's famous tongue twisted language mixer upper, and The Three X Sisters, Pearl, Violet and Jessie NBC's champion exponents of harmony will serve as the long awaited footlight fare under the novel title of "Southland." Supporting these two important radio combinations will be Melissa Mason, dancing star of the "Scandals."

Income Tax In A Nutshell

WHO? Single persons who had net income of $1,000 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more, and married couples who had net income of $2,500 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more must file returns.

WHEN? The filing period begins January 1 and ends March 15, 1934.

WHERE? Collector of internal revenue for the district in which the person lives or has his principal place of business.

HOW? See instructions on forms 1040A and 1040.

WHAT? Four per cent normal tax on the first $4,000 in excess of the personal exemption and credits. Eight per cent normal tax on the balance of net income. Surtax on net income in excess of $5,000.

Income Tax Don'ts

DON'T prepare your return without first studying the instructions on the form.

DON'T procrastinate. Early assembling of data permits a careful consideration of all tax problems.

DON'T destroy the memoranda from which your return was prepared.

DON'T omit explanation when such information is essential to an intelligent audit. Attach memoranda to your return.

YOUR INCOME TAX No. 2 FORMS FOR MAKING RETURNS

Forms for filing returns of income for 1933 have been sent to persons who filed returns last year. Failure to receive a form, however, does not relieve a taxpayer of his obligation to file his return and pay the tax on time, on or before March 15 if the return is made on the calendar year basis, as is the case with most individuals.

Forms may be obtained upon request, written or personal, from the offices of collectors of internal revenues and deputy collectors. Persons whose net income for 1933 was derived chiefly from salary or wages and was not in excess of $5,000 should make their returns on form 1040A, a single sheet. Persons whose net income was in excess of $5,000, or, regardless of amount, was derived from a business, profession, rents or sale of property, are required to use a larger form, 1040. Failure to use the proper form presents difficulties to both the taxpayer and the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Therefore, it is emphasized that a taxpayer engaged in a business or profession from which he derived a net income of less than $5,000 is required to use the larger form.

The return must be filed with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer has his legal residence or principal place of business on or before midnight of March 15, 1934. The tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return or in four equal installments, due on or before March 15, June 15, September 15, and December 15.

Arlington A. A. Trounces Pals

The Big Red Basketball team rose to its great heights and defeated the Arlington Pals 68-23 at Junior High East recently before a large crowd. The Pals made it interesting in the first period but fell by the wayside due to the passing of the Arlington A. A. which was having one of its good nights.

After what seemed like a lapse against the East Club the A. A. took it out of the Pals and put up a whirlwind game to make it six straight victories in the Senior league and hold its top place against the First Baptist. Galucci and Friery once more dominated the scoring and their teamplay was beautiful to watch. The spectators were treated to a beautiful piece of team work play and more than once responded with generous applause. Ramsey and Keefe were outstanding for the Pals along with "Red" Beasley who is slowly coming into his own. New week's Arlington A. A. schedule finds them at the Woburn Y on Wednesday, Thursday at the Junior High East against the Fabs, Saturday at Melrose City Club at the City Hall and the following Monday at the Barry Club.

Seth Parker In Novel Program This Evening

Woman's part in the drama of the sea will be the theme of Captain Phillips H. Lord's Frigidare broadcast tonight from Newport News, Va., where his picturesque four-masted schooner, Seth Parker, will be tied up for a few days. Sailing slowly down the coast, Lord, creator of Seth Parker, has been acquiring an amazing amount of sea background and getting first hand information about much of the folklore along the seaboard. Part of this will form the background of his program tonight at 10 p. m., Eastern Standard time over a coast to coast NBC hookup.

Women have always played a prominent part in the development of America's shipping. In the seaboard towns, they have paced the captain's walk atop their colonial figured houses watching for the first sign of their loved one's ship as her masts hove in sight over the horizon. And as they watched, they knew that braced on the crossbeams their husband, son or sweetheart was watching, too, for the first sight of land even while the ship was still hull down on the horizon.

While in Newport News, the Seth Parker will take on additional gear and have her compass checked. Her rigging will be trued up and on Wednesday, after the broadcast, Captain Lord will head her seaward with hatches battened down for the hard beat down the coast around Cape Hatteras, the roughest point on the entire Atlantic seaboard.

Modern Opera Star

LAWRENCE TIBBETT

The artist's conception is correct in portraying Lawrence Tibbett in modernistic style—for he is constantly breaking tradition and making new history.

The shadow, of course, exaggerates the characteristic features of the tall American who makes such an imposing figure in opera roles and romantic lover in the sound-films.

Tibbett was the first opera star to contract for a radio series, the first opera star to go into the motion pictures, the first great opera singer who studied in America only, the first opera singer to campaign for opera in English, the first singer to make a success of an opera such as "Emperor Jones" which depends on a dramatic effect without melodious songs, the first opera singer to win the American Academy of Arts and Letters Gold Medal for diction on the stage. A lot more "Firsts" are found by looking into his musical career.

Tibbett's many different fields of singing make it possible for him to give a radio program with "a song for everybody." The program this Monday at 8:30 P.M. over N.B.C.-WEAF Network includes: "Tramps at Sea" by Stothart, "In the Silence of the Night," "Alone Together" by Arthur Schwartz, and "Vision Fugitive" by Massenet. The Orchestra will render "Chansonette" by Friml. Harvey Firestone, Jr., will give another brief talk on "The Story of Transportation."
